2.3.1- Student centric methods, such as experiential learning, participative learning and problem solving methodologies are used for enhancing learning experiences:

The teaching-learning process at Sonari College highlights student-centric, participatory, and experiential approaches to transform students into active participants in the learning process, enhancing their intellectual, creative, and social engagement while fostering skill development. The primary objectives include developing problem-solving skills through practical experiences and enhancing learning using oral and PowerPoint presentations, and interactive methods that involve seminars, group discussions, quizzes and Q&A sessions on current topics. Departments issue mentor –mentee list for the students to help them grow academically, professionally and personally by providing guidance and support. Mentors keep track of the academic performance of the mentees and provide the necessary assistance in the event of poor grades and serve as guides and role models, offering academic guidance, career advice, and emotional support to their mentees. Students gain hands-on experience through labs, projects, dissertations, and field trips in various disciplines. Internships, industrial visits, and skill-based training workshops enrich their career development and creativity. Participatory activities inside the classroom include brainstorming, group presentations, students engage in debates, cultural programs, language classes, competitions and seminars.
